BATTLE FOR PRESIDENT OF UAW IS CLOSE

Reuther and Thomas Running Almost Neck-and-Neck With Fourth of Votes Counted

ROLL CALL IS SLOW

BULLETIN
Atlantic City, N. J., March 27.—(P)—Walter R. J. Thomas was running almost neck-and-neck in their fight for the presidency of the CIO United Auto Workers today with about one-half of the votes had been cast.

Atlantic City, March 27.—(P)—Walter Reuther, red-haired leader of the General Motors strike, got a bigger ovation than his opponent today when formally nominated for president of the CIO United Auto Workers.

What looked to be about a two-third majority of the 1,877 delegates rose and paraded around the hall for Reuther.

Reuther was grinning broadly and chewing gum on the stage.

R. J. Thomas, running for reelection, sat with a grim look on his face.

On the basis of the Reuther and Thomas demonstrations, Reuther's election appeared likely in the lengthy roll-call vote which was to be taken this afternoon. But it was impossible to say positively how the balloting would come out.

This is because the delegates have, depending on one to eight votes, depending on the size of their locals.

The roll-call voting was expected to consume about four hours. The delegates have anywhere from one to eight votes, depending on the size of the local unions.

Shrieks, cheers, whistles, horns and bell-ringing filled the convention hall prior to a roll-call vote of 1,877 delegates which was expected to consume about four hours.

The candidates:
R. J. Thomas, president for the last seven years.

Walter Reuther, vice-president, who led the General Motors strike.

In the midst of the demonstration Reuther walked up to Thomas on the stage and the rivals who have hurled bitter campaign epithets at each other smiled and exchanged remarks.

Yesterday's convention session again produced general confusion, heckling and loud protests from delegates who couldn't get the floor.

Thomas went into the balloting with the support of Secretary-Treasurer George F. Addes and Vice-President Richard T. Frankenstein, while Reuther stood alone among the four top officers of the 600,000-member union.

Million Dollar Tobacco Fire In Lancaster

Lancaster, March 27.—(P)—Raging out of control for more than two hours, a general alarm fire destroyed nearly 5,000,000 pounds of tobacco and wrecked a four-story warehouse early today.

Police said it was one of the costliest fires in the history of this eastern Pennsylvania tobacco center. Tobacco company spokesmen estimated loss at close to $1,000,000.

Flames sweeping through the warehouse generated such heat and caused such a rapid exhaustion of air that steel shutters bolted to windows were blown off.

As a precautionary measure against broken high tension wires, some of the city's electric power was shut off. Firemen said embers would continue to smolder for several days.

No one was injured. Cause of the blaze was not determined.

The warehouse, owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad, was valued at about $150,000.

George S. Mann, a member of a tobacco brokers' firm, said the fire might have started in a section of the warehouse where power lines enter the building.

It was the second tobacco warehouse fire here this year. In January, the warehouse of Milton H. (Turn to Page Nine)

Time For Electioneering To Be Arranged for Congressmen

Washington, March 27.—(P)—Congressional leaders have agreed to give members a little time for electioneering during the Easter season.

No formal recess is planned, they told a reporter today, but from mid-April to May 1 major business will be shifted aside.

Daily sessions will not be held, unless some member insists. Two meetings weekly probably will be scheduled.

Members of several committees still considering key measures will be expected to stay on the job, but other lawmakers will be free to make a jaunt home to talk with their voters.

Spine-Tingling Spy Mystery Confronts A-Bomb Conscious Nation In Arrest of Russian

Washington, March 27.—(P)—The State Department was kept fully informed about FBI activities which led to seizure of a young Russian naval officer on charges of espionage, Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson said today. He declined further comment.

The 29-year-old Soviet officer, Lt. Nikolai Gregorovich Redin, was arrested last night in Portland, Ore., just as he was about to board a Russian vessel which was preparing to sail home.

Redin was accused of trying to obtain plans and information involving the U. S. S. Yellowstone, a destroyer tender slated to participate in Pacific atom bomb tests.

Acheson told a news conference that the justice department kept the state department fully posted on the developments, but would not further discuss the arrest of Redin, a member of the Soviet Purchasing Commission at Seattle.

The formal charge was disclosed late last night by Assistant FBI Agent Julius A. Bernard at Portland, hours after FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover had announced tersely in Washington that Redin had been seized as he was about to board a Russian sailing vessel for home.

Arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Robert A. Leedy, the Soviet officer, wearing the uniform of his rank, was asked whether he understood English.

Thumping Leedy's desk, Redin cried "I will not talk, I will not talk."

He then demanded to see the Soviet consul, who was not represented at the proceedings.

But Leedy, fixing bail at $25,000, ordered the officer to be held in Multnomah county jail in default of bond until another hearing is set.

Redin, a graduate of the Russian Naval Academy who came to this country four years ago, had been under "intensive FBI scrutiny" for several months, Hoover said in Washington.

State department officials and the Russian embassy were silent. There was no immediate clear-cut answer to the No. 1 question posed by the arrest: Could atomic bomb secrets be involved?

But a broad hint that they might be came from the house committee on un-American activities, which for several weeks has been digging into reports that a foreign spy ring is at work in this country.

Committee Counsel Ernie Adamson said the group headed by Rep. John S. Wagoner (D-Mich.) had a closed-door meeting scheduled for today, adding to a reporter:

"I assume after the meeting the chairman will have something to say about this arrest."

PICKET LINES CRASHED BY SUPERVISORS

Hundreds of 'White Collar' Workers Pour Into Westinghouse Plant At Pittsburgh

TAUNTS ARE IGNORED

Pittsburgh, March 27.—(P)—Hundreds of supervisory and "white collar" workers poured into Westinghouse Electric Corporation's struck East Pittsburgh works without incident today. State police gave terse orders to "keep moving" to a large crowd which echoed a union public address system taunting those passing through the picket lines.

Those entering, described by the company as non-production workers, passed through the gates in automobiles or on foot while the police flanking the gates watchfully eyed the crowd.

Union leaders returned again to a mobile public address system which temporarily was banned yesterday on order of Chief Deputy Sheriff Louis M. Foster who said it was being used for "inflammatory" speeches. Three unionists, who ignored Foster's order against use of the system, were taken into custody and questioned but later were released.

Charles Newell, international representative of the striking CIO United Electrical Workers, went to the microphone as workers entered the plant and exhorted unionists to:

"Give them a boo. We still have that right."

Albert Smith, business agent for Local 610 with jurisdiction over the Westinghouse plant, told pickets and onlookers:

"They (state police) will not intimidate us. Let them make arrests, but they've got to stop pushing our people around."

The East Pittsburgh plant has been closed since Jan. 15 along with other Westinghouse plants employing 75,000 who are seeking an 18 1/2 cents hourly "across the board" increase.

In Harrisburg, Governor Martin ordered William H. Chesnut, secretary of labor and industry, to go to Pittsburgh to survey the situation at the strike-bound plant as to need for the state police.

Chesnut expected to start for Pittsburgh about noon.

The governor's action followed a request yesterday by a committee from Local 601, CIO-United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers for withdrawal of the state police on the ground there had been no violence on the picket line.

Some 500 such employees entered the plants yesterday, despite booing and jostling. A crowd of about 1,000 clustered near the main gates of the big East Pittsburgh plant were dispersed yesterday morning by about 200 state police assisted by 60 sheriff's deputies.

A Westinghouse spokesman said the company expected to have 7,000 salaried employees back at work in this area by week's end. He said they were needed to plan work on more than $800,000,000 worth of actual or potential business tied up in the strike called (Turn to Page Nine)

Lewis Announces Coal Walkout

John L. Lewis, president of the AFL United Mine Workers, emphasizes a point as he announces to a press conference at Washington, D. C., that miners in bituminous coal fields will walk off their jobs at midnight, March 31, unless a contract is agreed upon prior to that time. He explained that he is not calling a strike, but that miners do not work without a contract.

Federal Agencies Move To Soften Blow Due To Fall As Soft Coal Miners "Take Rest"

Washington, March 27.—(P)—Government agencies moved swiftly today to soften the blow due to fall April 1 when John L. Lewis calls upon his 400,000 soft coal miners to take a "rest."

However, spokesmen for the bituminous operators predicted the steel industry—core of the nation's reconversion program—would be affected immediately and that some steel mills would be shut down by April 10.

These predictions followed Lewis' decision to terminate his present contract with the soft coal producers as of midnight Sunday.

On the government side, a spokesman for the Solid Fuels Administration disclosed that an order is "in the works" to freeze coal shipments until some form of industrial rationing can be worked out.

Likewise, Howard T. Colvin, associate director of the Federal Conciliation Service, said "the government will now interest itself in the case" on the basis of indications that negotiations between the United Mine Workers and the bituminous operators have collapsed.

Harry Moses, representing the so-called captive mines whose output goes to the steel companies which own them, told newsmen he could not indicate how soon steel mills as a whole would be forced to shut down because of a coal shortage. But he asserted that a conservation program would be planned in effect immediately affecting production, that some mills would be closed in 10 days. Others, he said, would be shut down progressively within a month.

These developments were sparked by Lewis' announcement that members of his UMW in the soft coal field would "be home with their families" next week, in line with the miners' traditional refusal to work without a contract.

ACCEPTABLE COMPROMISE IS SOUGHT BY SUB-COMMITTEE AT ATLANTIC CITY MEETING

New York, March 27.—(P)—The United Nations Security Council's sub-committee, appointed to find a compromise formula in the Iranian case, adjourned after meeting an hour and a half today with the announcement that "no agreement has yet been reached." Secretary of State Byrnes would make no statement. He referred reporters to Porter McKeever, press attaché of the American delegation, who said he had been authorized to say: "No agreement has been reached yet. The meeting is over. They adjourned at 12:45 p. m." Andrei Gromyko, Russian representative on the council and the sub-committee, said repeatedly: "I have nothing at all to say."

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

New York, March 27.—(P)—The possibility of a deadlock between the United States and Russia over a United Nations hearing for Iran was reported causing serious concern among American officials today.

A sub-committee, including representatives of the United States, Russia and France, began meeting in an effort to find an acceptable compromise formula.

Secretary of State Byrnes, Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko and French Ambassador Henri Bonnet went into session in Bonnet's suite on the 14th floor of the Pierre Hotel shortly after 11 o'clock to try to reach some decision in time for a report to the Security Council at 3 p. m. today.

One possible way out of the difficulty which American officials appeared willing to accept was a proposal that Iran Ambassador Hussein Ala should be called by the Security Council merely to present his views on whether his government would suffer if the Iranian case were delayed, as Russia demands, until April 10th.

Even this, however, may not be acceptable to Gromyko. If Russia persists in absolute refusal to agree to hear any statement of Ala and if the United States is equally adamant about allowing him to speak, then it appeared almost certain that Russia would be out-voted in today's full council session, that Ala would be invited, and that Gromyko might either walk out of the meeting or absent himself at any sessions at which Ala appeared.

The Iranian delegation leader, Hussein Ala, insisted that his government still has him under instructions to press its protests that Red army troops have overstayed their post-war occupation limit, despite a Russian contention that a mutual agreement has been reached with Tehran and that Soviet troops are withdrawing.

Members of the sub-committee on "procedure" to which the Iranian issue was referred are Russian delegate Andrei Gromyko, U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and France's Ambassador to Washington, Henri Bonnet.

Gromyko lost the first round in the council session when his motion to delete the Iranian issue from the proposed agenda was defeated 9-2, Poland alone supporting Russia.

Secretary-General Trygve Lie's proposed four-item agenda then was adopted with Russia and Poland again dissenting.

Soviets Said To Be Quitting Northern Iran

By JOSEPH C. GOODWIN

Tehran, March 27.—(P)—Prince Mazafar Firouz, political under-secretary of state and director of propaganda, said today that the Russian evacuation of Kasvin, 80 miles northwest of Tehran, "was begun and should be completed within three or four days."

United States and British diplomatic officials said, however, that despite Russian troop movements northward they were not yet sure that the Red army intended to withdraw completely from the semi-autonomous Iranian province of Azerbaijan.

Firouz denied that any "secret agreement" existed between Iran and the Soviet Union concerning the Russian evacuation.

"The Russian reference to an 'understanding' on the evacuation question refers to their obligation under the tripartite treaty of 1942 of Russia, Britain and Iran, he said.

The evacuation began, he said, with the withdrawal of Soviet forces from Meshed, Shahrud, and Semnan, east and northeast of Tehran, on March 2.

The present movement, he termed a "continuation of the evacuation of Iran as demanded by Prime Minister Qavam on the visit to Moscow."

An Iranian general staff officer said there had been reports, either official or unofficial, that any Russian troops actually had crossed the Iranian frontier into the Soviet Union.

Sportsmen Taking Steps To Construct An Artificial Lake

Members of the Warren County Field and Stream Club are seriously at work on a project which when carried to completion, will give residents of this section a fine artificial lake near Old Clarendon. Several years ago sportsmen of the Clarendon area undertook the project and a survey for the lake was made by Civil Engineer Carl Rogers. Maps and plans were prepared and through the generosity of several Clarendon residents the land needed was donated. Coming of the war put the plans on the shelf and no more was ever discussed until recently.

The project calls for the erection of an earthen dam at Bookers Mills where many years ago during the lumbering operations in that section a mill dam was in use. Time and storms have washed away most of this old dam.

At a recent meeting of the Field and Stream Club the matter was brought up and the sportsmen started to work. Frank Geer, of the club on a recent trip to Harrisburg enlisted several men in the capital in key positions to give all possible aid. Assemblyman Allen Gibson, of Sheffield has also promised all possible aid in getting the money allocated for the construction. State Senator L. E. Chapman has also had the matter under consideration and calls attention to the fact that under appropriation Act No. 83A the legislature appropriated $18,500,000 for just such purposes which later Gov. Martin cut to $16,500,000. Under this act money can be allocated for "forest recreation and other works for acquisition by purchase, condemnation or gift of lands, buildings or other properties for state parks and for the development thereof, for construction of dams to create lakes". Senator Chapman has also contacted the appropriations office at Harrisburg and has received the following:

"In reference to your inquiry about funds available for dam construction as per your request I had a conversation with Mr. Stackpole in the office of the Fish Commission. He appeared to have some knowledge of the dam in which you are interested in Warren county. I am enclosing a copy of the 1945 appropriation acts and if you refer to Act No. 83-A making an appropriation of $18,500,000 to the Department of Forests and Waters, you will find that under this act funds for just the purpose about which you are inquiring would be available. It would appear that the Budget office and the Governor have not made anything like total allocation of this fund up to the present time. If you have a project in which you are interested, it might be well to work fast".

The Field and Stream will have the support of every citizen in this section in the project and it is to be hoped that the committee at work get their applications into Harrisburg with all speed so that possible construction might be started this summer.

The lake would be several miles in length and a good depth which afford bathing, boating and excellent fishing while camp sites and bathing beaches could be formed on the lake border. A need exists in this locality for such a recreational facility and there should be no difficulty in enlisting support and funds if necessary.

Oil exploration is under way in the Georgia - Florida - Alabama area, with 40,000,000 acres of land under lease.

FRANKLIN NOISY, TOO!

Franklin News-Herald

We commend to the proper officials the consideration of steps to put a check on useless noise.

Included in this category are blaring and constant honking of automobile horns, without reason; noisy and boisterous conduct on the part of late celebrators, who fail to realize that 98 per cent. of the town has gone to sleep and doesn't care to be awakened.

The situation has been going from bad to worse. Hardly an afternoon or evening passes without cars dashing here and yon, some of them in groups, constantly honking their horns. Others are parked for a few minutes in a residential district, and rather than have the driver or some occupant ring the door bell, proceed to arouse the whole neighborhood while some individual appears to join the "night party."

After midnight the use of loud and boisterous language on streets radiating from the business section into the residential areas has become a downright nuisance. We pass on these few tips. And there'll be more to say along this line, and directly, too, unless action is forthcoming.

PLACARDS AT 20 PACES

Our anger is admittedly illogical, but nothing in the whole squabble between the OPA and the National Association of Manufacturers has irked us more than the way each side has presented its case.

First we see pictures of OPA's Chester Bowles appearing before a congressional committee with a whole pile of graphs, charts, pictures, and texts which help to explain what he already is explaining orally.

Then we see a picture of NAM's Robert R. Wason with his whole speech printed in large letters on big placards set up on an easel. He recites his speech to the committee and lets them see the placards also.

This practice implies an even greater contempt for a congressman's intelligence than is customary.

Furthermore, it wastes the time of the congressman, as well as that of the sign-painters and graph-makers.

Finally, after all the speeches and charts and placards, where's the butter—and shirts, shorts, suits, and nylons? Where are they, huh?

BETTER SECURE THAT PLATE

Have you purchased your new 1946 automobile license plate yet? Or are you one of those procrastinating motorists, as many of us are, who will awaken next Monday morning and suddenly remember that you can't drive your car?

The facilities of the State Revenue Department were made available for the purchase of new plates several weeks ago. The Bureau of Motor Vehicles mailed out approximately 2,200,000 renewal applications in ample time for all motorists to avoid a last minute delay.

Motorists, who have not already done so, should renew their owner's registration at once.

If you do not have your new license plate when the old tag expires at midnight, March 31, you will have only yourself to blame.

Anyhow our Dragons fought into the semi-finals, a commendable achievement in itself, only to meet a much superior team on a night when the opponent was playing one of its best games. The unanimous opinion of those who were present seems to be that all things considered the boys did very well. By way of suggestion, why not book Homestead for a game in Warren next season? Lot of fans who were unable to make the trip to McKeesport would like to see the Wizards in action.

LENTEN SERMONETTE

By ERNEST A. KAEBNICK

General Missionary, American Sunday School Union
TEXT: Hebrews 13:8—"Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, today, and forever."

Reference is often made to St. John 3:16 as the heart of the Gospel. Here, however, is a text which goes to the heart of the personality of Jesus Christ, a text which is inexhaustible. It is like touching a vast continent of truth which can never be fathomed. The patriarchs, the prophets, the Christian martyrs, with all the saints and the holy Angels stand before us, but in their midst and towering above them stands Jesus Christ. He is the only one who is the same yesterday, today, and forever. The stream of time is ever changing, while Christ remains the changeless, the eternal Christ; the Rock of Ages.

How far back does the "yesterday" of the text carry us? Before the foundations of the earth were laid, and before the mountains were brought forth out of the sea, Christ was the eternal Son of God. Abraham rejoiced to see His day; Moses wrote of Him; David sang of His everlasting kingdom; Isaiah beheld Jesus he hailed Him as the Lamb of God. Paul had a vision of Christ and he became a new creature. He was the same when Augustine and Luther and Moody preached His gospel to sinners.

And because Christ remains ever the same, He is today the sinner's only hope. Today you can rejoice in Christ as your Saviour from sin; as your deliverer from the burdens you are bearing. Trials, sorrows, temptation, disappointment, loneliness, fears without and within, seek to overwhelm and crush you. Look to Christ. Seek Him. He is ever the same and He invites you to come unto Him.

Paris—A distinguished Frenchman remarked to me during a dinner conversation that his country is very ill and that he believes the other western allies should treat her accordingly—that is, with firmness when she is unreasonable, and with material aid when she needs it.

This line has kept running through my mind so persistently that I finally decided to incorporate it here, probably it has stuck with me because I'm sure from my own observations that my friend's diagnosis is correct. Whether his prescription is right is something to be determined by the allied governments.

Apropos of this, one notes that former Governor Harold Stassen in his New York speech asked Americans that they "promptly extend credits under proper terms to those who seriously need them, which includes England, France, Greece and Russia."

France's position is so serious that it can't be over-emphasized. It's grave, not only for her but for the world at large, because this important country is vital to global well-being.

My French friend of the dinner conversation is right when he says his country needs moral as well as material help. She isn't the France of old. The general public is bewildered and is increasingly inclined to experiment with political nostrums in the hope of finding relief.

Then there's another element entering into the situation, and that is injured pride. What else could be expected in the case of a nation which so long was one of the world's dominant powers? France finds it hard to accept the change brought by the Hitlerian conquest, and this has been responsible for many of her international political (Turn to Page Ten)

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

by Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON — We probably never will get around to all of the "now-it-can-be-told" stories of the war. Never in any similar period of the world's history have inventive genius and industrial expansion combined to flood the land with new gadgets, gimmicks, and machines.

After the release of reports on atomic energy, rockets, jet propulsion, radar and electronics, the punch is gone out of most of the stories.

The Army's Chemical Warfare Service probably will never get out now the full story of its use of smoke in the war.

When we went into this war, the Army didn't have one single smoke generator, yet when the Anzio beachhead was established the landing forces operated behind a smokescreen 15 miles long and capable of being maintained 14 hours a day.

Along the Moselle, Saar and Rhine whole armies were moving up behind smoke at the war's end.

Perhaps before long similar generators will be protecting millions of acres of fruits and vegetables from the unseasonable frosts.

ANOTHER process that came out of the war was the cheap extraction of helium. Once helium cost around $2,000 a cubic foot. Now it costs one cent a cubic foot and there are new plants in Kansas, Texas and New Mexico.

Among the many new uses lately turned up for helium is its use in oversize tires.

INCIDENTALLY, if you have seen anything of a new "ingenious" German machine which may revolutionize the manufacture of condensers for radio, radar, and other electronic equipment, notify the Army or the Department of Commerce. They've lost it.

Commerce recently announced that this new machine, which turned up in Stuttgart, Germany, was "enroute" and soon would be demonstrated publicly by Commerce and the Army Signal Corps. Army called Commerce and said the new machine already was "somewhere" in this country but could Commerce tell them where it was? Commerce couldn't.

Until it turns up, American condenser manufacturers will have to struggle along without the new machines, which Commerce says will cut production costs up to 20 percent.

Chemical warfare says they already are making thousands of gallons of soap with "napalm," one of the fillers used in the fire bombs that rained on Japanese cities. So far, it has been used only in mess-hall dishes and on barracks-room floors and isn't on the market commercially yet.

NEW BEAUTY WITH PATTERSON-SARGENT PAINTS

BROADWAY

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK — Down on Centre Market Street in Manhattan, which is a narrow sliver of a thoroughfare behind police headquarters, there is a neat red brick building with a white colonial entrance which would look exactly like a dignified residence if it weren't for the various flashing lights above the door and the variously-tuned bells which ring out harshly from time to time.

This little structure is the 24-hour headquarters for some of the finest reporters in the business, the tough, cynical, intelligently suspicious gang of police reporters for newspapers, news services and newsreels.

The lights and bells above the door are attached to the telephones from the different offices to signal the reporters. If a reporter is tone-deaf, the colored bulbs tell him if his office is calling. If he is color-blind too, I'm afraid there's no solution. Better make a rewrite man of him.

THIS building is only a few years old. When I was a New York police reporter the housing wasn't so tight. Each paper and news service had space in one of the shabby, dark and discouraging tenements with antique plumbing, which line the block.

There was a "combination," a pooling of news, for routine police matters. Whenever something impressive would happen, such collusion ended and it was every man for himself.

I don't think I'll ever forget my first day on the job. A head suddenly was thrust out a dirty tenement window and the police reporter attached to it howled to the gang sitting on benches along the sidewalk downstairs: "Out a window on 101st Street." The lads slowly and complacently arose and headed for their shabby cubicles. I asked one of them what it meant. "Oh, just some creep jumped out a window uptown," he said casually. "Probably just a cheap suicide. Won't make a paragraph, I'll bet."

A DEFINITE caste system has arisen since the new building went up. Most of the reporters have been on Centre Market Street since the old days of the "shacks." The youngsters who have worked only under the tidy conditions of modern housing, plumbing, lighting and cleanliness are snooted occasionally by the older bunch. Since I was a member of the pre-clean-up days, I am considered an "old-timer," and as such, greeted with extra respect by the newer police reporters, some considerably older than I, who have been convinced by the veterans that we covered the town when it really was a chore. I don't attempt to change their views. They make me feel important.

MEETING NEXT WEEK

Warren Sports Boosters are reminded that the next regular meeting will take place Wednesday April 3rd at the Y. M. C. A. 7:30 p. m. Many items of interest will be taken up at this session and a report of the progress made during the past month will be made.

SCHOOL BOYS AIDING

School boys from schools in all parts of Warren, Forest and other counties in this section are aiding the forestry department in fighting forest fires. Fire warden crews have been augmented by the boys who have proved their worth several times this spring in battling fires.

BOYS ROUNDED UP

A group of boys who had been engaged in smashing screens at the Johnson school and committing other depredations has been rounded up by the police. The boys will be at the police station today and will be dealt with by officials. Another lad who broke a window in a Conewango avenue grocery has also been apprehended and has arranged to settle.

OPEN BIDS SOON

Among the road construction bids to be opened on April 9th is one in Forest county where on Route 68 in Jenks township a surfacing project will be undertaken. This will be on 5.63 miles of existing pavement with bituminous surface 13 feet wide from 3.8 miles north of the Forest-Clarion county line to a point south of Marienville.

WEATHER TO BE FAIR

From the weather forecast the weather during the next 24 hours will be of the fair variety with no change in temperature. The extended forecast extending through Sunday is as follows: "Rain Wednesday and over southern sections about Friday and again at the end of the period, becoming cooler during the first part of the period, warmer Saturday and colder Sunday, but temperatures mostly above normal."

FOUR CARS DERAILED

The derailment of four cars, attached to eastbound freight W-2 north of Johnsonburg at 2 o'clock Sunday morning disrupted traffic on the Renovo Division of the Pennsylvania Railroad for several hours. Wrecking crews completed their work Monday and traffic was restored. In the meantime, eastbound passenger train 570, due in Ridgway at 10:20 a. m. and train 581 due here from Philadelphia at 5:15 a. m. were derailed between Emporium and Warren via Olean, N. Y.

Wettest state in the United States is Louisiana, with 55.11 inches of annual rainfall.

Feed Your Dog as Many Famous Breeders Do

"...grown dogs and puppies thrive..."

Miss Jackie Walls, owner of Wall-street Kennels, 1249 DuCote, Detroit, writes: "My kennel contains no less than 30 grown St. Bernards (English Type) at all times... I have been feeding a diet based on Kellogg's GROPUP to all my dogs for the past four years. Both the grown dogs and the puppies thrive on it."

MOST breeders and veterinarians use and recommend a foundation diet of good dry dog food fed with scrap meat, including fat. So many feed Kellogg's GROPUP because it provides all the vitamins and minerals dogs are known to need for growth and vigor.

Kellogg's GROPUP is thrifty. And dogs love its hearty, meaty flavor.

Sub Shop Opening Today Shows Fine Array of Style

The Miller Shop on Liberty street today threw open to the younger people of the city one of the most clever arrangements for the display of garments for the younger folk. The Sub Shop has been arranged in the basement of the store and it is most attractive. As one descends the stairway the painting in yellow attracts. Musical notes on the walls also add to the picture. "The Pigtail Crowd" finds a proper place with a fine display while the "Rope Jumpers" have a niche in the Sub Shop wherein their needs are cared for by the garments displayed.

"The Slick Chicks" come in for some fine attention in a department all their own where the Sub can really go to town reveling among the duds that will strike their fancy. Much time and thought has been given to arrangement of the Sub Shop and The Miller Shop is to be congratulated on the fitness of all arrangements and the wealth of attractive garments displayed.

and we have worked out a system that is practically loss-proof. "Many workers aged 65 or over do not realize that when they lose considerable time from covered employment, for any reason whatever, or when their total pay goes down, their old-age and survivors insurance benefits may go down also. We want them to realize that and to get the necessary information from our office to prevent any loss of benefits."

"So we're not only inviting, we are urging all workers and former workers in private industry and commerce—those who have done some work under social security—to come in to see us.

For the convenience of people of this community a representative of the Board holds office hours in the Employment Service Office 225 Penna. Ave., W., Warren, at 1:30 p. m. on the second and fourth Monday of each month.

Social Security News
Bernard A. Farabaugh, manager of the Social Security Board's field office at Erie, today issued a reminder that workers who have reached age 65 and have been employed in jobs covered by the Social Security Act long enough to be insured may "peg" their old-age and survivors insurance benefits, whether or not they plan to retire soon.

The reminder, Farabaugh said, is intended to help prevent any loss of benefits by older workers who may lose their jobs, may suffer reductions in total pay, or may lose considerable time from work because of illness or a change of jobs. "Once a benefit is pegged, by the worker or former worker," Farabaugh said, "it cannot go down. But it may go up, if the worker gets a new job or increased pay. The Board recalculate the benefit once a year, if the worker requests it and if it will result in higher monthly benefits for him." Farabaugh pointed out that the Board has been urging workers and former workers in employment covered by the Social Security Act to confer with their local officials at age 65, so that the Board people may advise them of their proper action to take in order to protect their full benefit rights.

Dinner and Program Marks the Silver Anniversary of Local Amaranth Court

Conewango Court, No. 20, Order of Amaranth, honored its charter members, past matrons and past patrons at a six o'clock dinner held last evening in the Masonic Temple Association building. The event marked the 25th anniversary of the order in Warren.

The dinner, under the capable chairmanship of Mrs. Jennie Hubbard and her co-chairman, Ruth Underwood, proved a success. Tables were attractively decorated in red and white, colors of the order, with monogrammed napkins and programs adding to the color scheme.

Mina Underwood, toastmistress, extended a welcome to all, and "Happy Birthday" was sung to all those having anniversaries in March. Several songs were sung by the entire group, with Mabel Smith furnishing the piano accompaniment.

Following dinner, the regular March meeting of the order was held. Miss Underwood, royal matron, and Elizabeth Abendroth, royal patron, presented charter members with miniature charters in read folders tied with silver ribbon, containing congratulations and the names of those who marked their 25th anniversary in Conewango Court. Mrs. Abendroth made the presentations and Miss Underwood called for impromptu reminiscences from the floor, the following responding: Maude Ross, Gerda DeForest, Eva Reardon, Erma Eha and Rilla Messerly. A quartet sang "Auld Lang Syne". Past matrons and patrons were then presented a white carnation and miniature folders with a verse of appreciation from the royal matron. Greetings to the court were read from Mrs. Anne Mattison, of Waltham, Mass.

Following the meeting, the court received birthday gifts which were deposited in a box resembling a beautifully decorated birthday cake. A quartet composed of Lillian Baludensperger, Ruth Thompson, Hazel Merenick and Eleanor Ristau sang several selections. A play, "Beauty Doctor", directed by Ireta King, was presented by Edith Ahlquist, Erma Eckardt, Dorothy Echehmeyer, Alice Bean, Virginia Baldensperger and Lillian Horsfield.

"Till We Meet Again" was sung by the entire group to conclude the evening's program.

Date Announced For Local Youth Jamestown Event

The Committee on Community Recreation announces today that Friday, April 12th, is the date decided on for a trip to the Jamestown Youth Center, the Rec. The Warren youth people will furnish a floor show and orchestra for the evening's entertainment.

A letter was received today from Harding Olson, program chairman of the Rec, expressing appreciation for the cooperation and hospitality displayed when the Jamestown youth people came to the Warren community recreation party last Saturday. Harding stated that the Jamestown entertainers found the Warren crowd to be one of the best audiences they ever encountered.

The group from Jamestown Rec, furnishing floor show and orchestra music for dancing, drew the largest crowd of the season at a community party in Beaty school. One hundred and fifty young people came down from Jamestown by a special chartered bus and private cars.

Entertainers from the neighborhood included Frank Fitch and Harding Olson as M. C.'s; Catherine Hammond, Jerry Lindross, Clarise Lundquist and Ingrid Persson, violinists; and Erle Johanson, Harold Anderson and Harding Olson, comedians. In the orchestra specialties were Herbert Carlberg, Donald Anderson, Rodney Hudson, Dorrance Allberg, Frank Caffee, Dick Nunn, Lynette Anderson, and Ernie Johanson.

The Committee on Community Recreation has voted on floor show numbers and orchestra to make the trip to Jamestown. Auditions will be completed this week and the full program presented at the next Warren community party on Saturday, April 6th. Committee heads will be announced in the Times-Mirror tomorrow.

A Report on the Telephone Situation here in WARREN

There are now 330 applicants on the waiting list for telephone service here in Warren.

(On V-J Day, there were 364 on the waiting list. By March, we had removed 277 names. But new applicants added 243 other names. Result: a decrease of only 34 names.)

There are three reasons for the waiting lists:

- 1—Shortage of telephone instruments
- 2—Shortage of central office equipment
- 3—Shortage of outside wire and cable

1—So far as telephone instruments are concerned, we still don't have all we need, though they are coming through in ever-increasing quantities.

2—So far as central office equipment is concerned, we can take care of all those now on the waiting list... by loading available equipment to the hilt as telephone instruments become more and more plentiful. And that's exactly what we're doing! By early summer, we hope to have a little leeway in the form of a $7,400 addition to central office equipment, now on order.

3—Shortage of outside wire and cable will hold up service to a few of those now on the waiting list. But this hurdle, too, will be cleared this fall, with the completion of a $9,150 addition to outside plant.

And finally there remains the big job of installing the telephones. This, by itself, will take many days.

If the Operator Doesn't Answer Immediately...

... we hope you'll understand. Because of the unprecedented number of calls going through the Warren Central Office, there may be occasional delays before the operator says "Number, Please."

You can help us cut down these delays by making your calls brief, when possible. Thank you!

These service delays, we assure you, are only temporary. This fall we'll complete another addition to central office equipment (costing $12,000) which will help make your telephone service better than ever!

IN EVERY CASE, OUR BUSINESS OFFICE WILL NOTIFY APPLICANTS AS SOON AS IT IS POSSIBLE TO GIVE THEM SERVICE.

Vitamins by Reputable Firms

By MULLEN DRUG CO.

Names mean something in this world. Many a man takes pride in the fact that his "name" is as good as his bond. He strives to earn and to live up to such a reputation.

Firms have the same earnest desire to earn and to live up to a good name. In no field is this truer than in the field of medicine. Doctors, druggists, pharmaceutical concerns first establish, then maintain their good names.

In buying Vitamins remember to get those under the name of well known pharmaceutical firms, for they stand for high quality, greater efficiency, resulting in greater economy.

Navy Chaplain Gives Address To Lions Club

On Tuesday, a former Warren man, Lieutenant Carl Peterson, who is now a U. S. Navy Chaplain was the guest speaker at the Lions Club luncheon.

In his talk the speaker described the people, the way of living and the terrain of New Guinea. The principal diet of the people consists of coconuts together with wild pig.

The natives suffer from various sorts of skin diseases. In this respect it is strange to note that though most of them are carriers of malaria that they are practically immune to it.

For hunting the men use bows and arrows together with machetes. Some of them use a version of our sling shot. As they do not have rubber bands to furnish the impetus, they use a sling shot with a handle about five feet long which is driven into the ground and the spring of the handle furnishes the force with which to propel the missile.

The average life of the native is about 35 to 40 years of age. Animal life on New Guinea consists principally of wild pigs, kangaroos, and birds. New Guinea with its harbors, etc. had been well surveyed by the Japs as long as 15 years before the war. The intention was to use the island as a base from which to strike against Australia. Most of the air strips have been abandoned since the end of the war.

There is much wealth in the hills of the island consisting of rare woods, precious stones, and metals. The western part is controlled by the Dutch and the eastern part by the Australians. Most of the work is done by the women. The men spend their time hunting and fishing and they also build the homes. The natives are very adept at wood carving.

Other guests present at the meeting included William Acks, Floyd Rice, and Ernest Miller.

DRAGONS ARE OUTCLASSED BY POWERFUL HOMESTEAD FIVE

Warren Unable To Penetrate Dazzling Steelers' Defense, Is Held To Four Field Goals

Warren High School's basketball team came to the end of the victory trail last night. Before a packed house at McKeesport Vocational High School, the District 10 champions, game but outclassed, fell victims to a powerful Homestead team, 44 to 13.

The Steelers threw up a defense which Warren could not penetrate, holding the Dragons to four field goals. Seldom were the locals able to get a man loose near the basket and had to be content with long shots from the floor. Homestead, with a fast-breaking offense which worked with smooth precision, manipulated Beecham and Sobocinski under the basket for peep shots, and when this was broken up Asmonga hit with deadly accuracy from the floor.

Although doomed from the early part of the first quarter the Dragons fought valiantly throughout the game and local fans have every reason to be proud of their record.

Eaton was ejected from the game in the final stages and Coach Massa made frequent substitutions in a vain effort to put more punch into the contest. Eaton with one field goal and three fouls led the Warren scoring while Harris accounted for two goals, just one-half of Warren's total.

The team now hangs up its uniforms after having entered the State semi-finals further than any previous local team has gone, and after a long and grilling season. To them and their coach, Joe Massa, Warren extends hearty congratulations.

Number Important Changes Made In Basketball Rules

New York, March 27—(P)—The basketball rule prohibiting re-entry of any player in the last four minutes of a game—a coach's headache during its one season in the book—went out the window today and a more liberalized version was ready to take its place.

The modification of the four-minute rule was one of four minor changes made in the cage sport's legislation by the National Basketball Committee of the United States and Canada which closed its annual two-day rules-making session here yesterday.

Under the new rules, one re-entry per player will be allowed during the last four minutes of a game and the clock will be stopped automatically throughout that period whenever the ball is dead.

This compares to the 592 points Vince Hanson, of Washington State scored to capture the 1945 crown and to the 529 Kurland tallied to land seventh place a year ago.

Kurland tallied his 643 points in 33 games on 257 field goals and 129 free throws to finish 48 points ahead of runner-up Elmore Morgenthaler, of New Mexico Mines. The seven-foot one-inch Morgenthaler ended the season with 585 points.

Bill Hall, of Marshall, who held the No. 1 spot for a large part of the season, finished third at 572 points with George Miklan, of DePaul, fourth at 553 and Fred Lewis, of Eastern Kentucky, fifth at 537. No other players crossed the 500-point mark.

While Kurland scored the most points, Miklan for the second straight year had the highest average per game. In 24 games he averaged 23.1, only a fraction below the 23.2 pace he set for 24 games during the 1945 campaign.

NAME BOWLERS

OPENING AT BUFFALO

Buffalo, N. Y., March 27—(P)—Ten-pin enthusiasts looked forward today to outstanding performances when "name" bowlers invade the American Bowling Congress World Championship Tournament this weekend.

In yesterday's competition, John Rutkowski, a kegger of international fame, and Joseph Bruzdinski, both of Syracuse, teamed to take over second place in the doubles with a score of 1298.

The 41-year-old Rutkowski, Swimmer of the German national individual title, shot 675 yesterday on games of 194, 224 and 257. Bruzdinski, 38, contributed 623 on a 245-189-188 series.

Western New York booster squads will predominate in tonight's competition, with a scattering of teams from Pennsylvania, Michigan, Illinois and Ohio also scheduled.

Oklahoma A. & M. Wins College Title

New York, March 27—(P)—Hank Iba, 42-year-old coach of the only school to win the NCAA basketball crown two straight years, believes his present Oklahoma A. & M. aggregation is even better than his "dream" five of last year which went on to defeat DePaul for the national championship.

In vanquishing a strong North Carolina quintet, 43-40 at Madison Square Garden last night before 18,479 fans, the Aggies scored their 15 consecutive conquest and closed the season with a record of 31 victories in 33 games.

1948 Olympics Are Proving Headache

Chicago, March 27—(P)—Two qualified spokesmen today went to bat for the 1948 Olympic games at London which threaten to produce a large international headache, with Russia an uncertain entry and the erstwhile Axis nations still personae non grata.

Let the Germans, Japs and Italians compete, asserted Capt. Louis Zamperini, who earned his name from the army's list of dead last year when he staggered from a Jap prison camp.

Declared Avery Brundage, president of the U. S. Olympic Games Committee: "For every one person who wants the Olympics dropped, there are a million, one hundred thousand and one who want them continued." He referred to recent editorial criticism of the Olympics in this country and Australia.

Important Decision of Local Judge Affirmed By Sup. Court

In one of the most important and far reaching decisions involving contract law and its application to corporate income tax law, Judge Allison D. Wade of the Court of Common Pleas of Warren County, was affirmed by the Pa. Supreme Court in upholding the right of the State Court to interpret contracts as being binding on the Federal taxing authorities.

The case arose before Judge Wade on an application for declaratory judgment by Bertha Thomas, plaintiff, vs. Thomas Flexible Coupling Co., defendant, who sought to have declared a certain royalty contract made between her and the defendant company based on valuable patent rights granted her, as being a binding contract on the defendant corporation.

The Federal Tax Court held the argument not binding and refused to allow as corporate deductions royalties due the plaintiff. The plaintiff thereupon sought relief in the State Court to have her contract judicially decided.

Judge Wade after determining the validity of the agreement had the further question to decide as to what extent the interpretation of the contract would be binding on the Federal Courts. Judge Wade ruled that the mere fact that a question of income tax law would be involved as a result of the decision, did not divest the local State Court of jurisdiction in determining the question of interpretation of the contract before it.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court in affirming this decision by a divided court, sustained Judge Wade's interpretation of the contract as well as his decision that Federal taxing bodies must of necessity follow the local State laws as to interpreting contracts, even though such decision may mean lessened taxes to the Federal Government.

The decision in this case has been eagerly awaited by many income tax attorneys throughout the nation for the precedent established will have material bearing on many contracts made with corporations. A. Alexander, Clark & Stewart and Attorney Walter B. Gibbons of Philadelphia, represented Bertha Thomas and R. Pierson Eaton and Austin Canfield and William T. Hannar, of Washington, D. C., represented the defendant.

IF PARTNER OPENS LIGHT, AWAIT REBID

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority

A good many players like to open distributional hands without the required high card strength. If you do this, however, you must bear in mind that your partner believes that you have an opening bid. After opening a shaded bid, you do not have the right to pass your partner's forcing bids.

I played some rubber bridge in Pittsburgh recently with Paul Thoma, president of the Pittsburgh Bridge Association. I told Paul I liked to open the bidding light, so he opened today's hand with a diamond. When he confirmed his bid with four diamonds, indicating that he did not like my heart suit, I went to six diamonds.

Thoma developed a nice squeeze play to make seven. He won the opening lead with the ace of spades, won the heart with dummy's ace and ruffed a heart. He cashed moves which haven't found favor in the eyes of all the allies. She is fighting to retrieve her former position.

France's most pressing need is ease in the matter of food. Folk can't think rightly when they're undernourished, as is the situation with countless people in this country. Fortunately spring has brought the warmth which has been denied throughout the winter because of the shortage of fuel.

But along with food relief there must be a start in economic recovery. France must have from abroad the machinery and supplies to get her industries into action again. The chief source of these things for most of the world is, of course, the United States and so it is largely to America that France is looking.

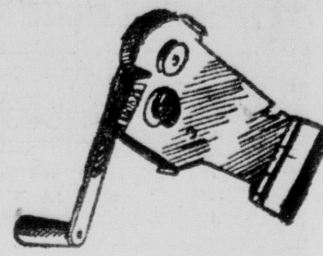

Once a measurable start has been made in the matter of those two basic items of relief, France's illness should take a turn for the better, though recovery may be a long time in coming.

The richest woman in the United States and probably in the world is Hetty Sylvia Howland Green Wilks, daughter of Hetty Green, Wall Street tycoon of the nineties. Mrs. Wilks has more money than Doris Duke and Barbara Hutton combined.

DARK POWER

BY ELISABETH HOLDING

Chapter 15
"WELL . . ." said Rogers, "it seems you were the last one to hear anything of this man. Now what time did he knock at your door?"

"I don't know," said Di.
"About what time?"

"I haven't any idea what time it was."

"Well," said Rogers. "I guess we'll have to let the time go. What did Wren say to you?"

"He asked me to let him in. Then he stopped talking—suddenly."

"Did you hear him walk away?"

"No."

"You say you found blood under the door?"

"Yes."

"What did you do?"

"I think I fainted."

"When you came to yourself, I suppose you called for help?"

"My aunt was there, I was—rather ill, feverish . . ."

"I see . . ." said Rogers. "Now what dealings had you had with Wren?"

"I never had any 'dealings'."

"Any idea why he came to you?"

"No."

"That afternoon Wren brought you a private message from a man called Fennel?"

"It wasn't a 'private' message. He just told me that Mr. Fennel wanted to see me."

"You met Fennel in the wood?"

"Yes."

"What did you know about Fennel?"

"I brought me a letter from a friend."

"What's the name and address of the friend?"

Reluctantly she gave him Mrs. Frick's address.

"Can you describe him?"

"Why?" she demanded. "He has nothing to do with this."

"Don't be too sure of that!" said Rogers. "Now, was this Fennel a man of medium height, slender, dark complexion and mustache, nice gentlemanly ways?"

"That description would apply," said Aunt Emma from the doorway.

"That's 'Smoky' all right,"

said Rogers. "That's just the way he works, too. What they call one of these society burglars."

"He's not a burglar," said Di, briefly. "It's ridiculous—"

"Now, I understand that while you were talking to this Fennel, your uncle came, and there were words."

"He was angry because I'd left him alone. There weren't any 'words,' except his own."

"But just the same he got so excited he had some sort of fit?"

"Attack. Heart attack," said Aunt Emma.

"Attack," said Rogers. "You then went to the house, leaving Fennel alone with your uncle? And Fennel was presently joined by Wren?"

"Yes. But—"

"Did you, at any time subsequent to this, see Fennel and Wren together?"

"I did," said Aunt Emma. "I found him out on the drive talking to Wren."

"Yes," said Rogers. "That's how he works. When he was alone with the old gentleman, he found that money in his pockets. But he was too smart to lift it then. No . . . He gets Wren to do the dirty work."

"That's ridiculous!" cried Di. "Mr. Fennel—"

"He always makes a good impression," said Rogers. "No. He's 'Smoky,' all right. Depend on it! Now, if I can just use your telephone—"

"It's out of order," said Aunt Emma.

"Too bad! Old gentleman able to answer any questions?"

"It's not advisable for him to talk much," said Aunt Emma. "But he's so disturbed about the loss of the money, it may do him good to see that steps are being taken."

AUNT EMMA addressed herself to Di.

"I've just put your breakfast ready in here," she said. "And there's a letter for you, that came this morning. I'll go with Rogers while he questions your Uncle Rufus."

As soon as they were out of sight, Di took the letter from the table, and tore it open.

"That's 'Smoky' all right,"

"I was very sorry indeed to fail you at our little rendezvous last night. Believe me, it was a great disappointment to me. But circumstances prevented it. Please accept the enclosed as a little mark of my admiration—and my regret that we cannot meet again."

"Yours most sincerely,"

"JAMES FENNEL."

She unfolded the enclosed paper, and found in it a fifty-dollar bill.

"Oh, no!" she said, half aloud.

It seemed to her that she was mortally stricken by this blow, that she could never get over it. Not only the revelation that Fennel was a thief, but the insult of his sending her this money, the tone of his note.

"I liked him," she thought, "I liked him—better than any other man I've ever met."

Then she thought that perhaps other women had said that of him. "That was the way he worked."

But he had come with a letter from Mrs. Frick.

"If only I hadn't lost that letter!" she thought. "But I'll see Mrs. Frick this afternoon. I'll ask her about him. Perhaps—"

The profound instinct of her nature was loyalty. She had a quick and remarkably sound intuition in the reading of character; she saw people's virtues, and forever cherished them; she saw their weaknesses and could excuse them. And she had seen in that man something strong and fine, something which her heart refused to discredit. She was cruelly affronted by his letter, profoundly troubled by the suspicion that Rogers had evoked, but she could not dismiss Fennel as utterly worthless.

A leaden oppression weighed upon her. That Rogers seemed so confident, so resolute; suppose he found Fennel, arrested him sent him to prison?

"I'll have to be a witness," she thought. "Against him— I'll have to admit that I left him alone with Uncle Rufus . . . And this letter—"
